New York 18.—New York, with its more than four million inhabitants, augmented by probably another million of visitors, unconditionally surrendered to Theodore Roosevelt today once more when he touched America among the hundreds of vessels bound in the same direction.

It was shortly after 7:30 o'clock when the editor of the reception committee arrived at the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria and a few minutes later the big Dutzend, the flagship of Commander Fred B. Dutzend in command of the welcoming fleet, and naval parade, gave three long blasts as a signal that Mr. Roosevelt had boarded the Androscegon. In a moment a perfect bedlam of noise vibrated through the narrow, announcing to the hundreds of thousands packed in the lower part of Manhattan that "Teddy" was on his way to the inner harbor. The whistles and sirens of the craft around Quarant-aine started the tumult and every single ship in the harbor and along the river fronts took it up until one continuous roar went up, searing the seabirds in the harbor into hysterics.
For two minutes or more this noisy demonstration continued and it might have lasted longer had not the vessels needed their steam for their long trip to the river and back.

The naval parade, headed by the Dutzend and several other ships, during patrol duty and several police boats presented an interesting spectacle. The Androscegon came first, a short distance after the patrol boats, then followed the other craft in double column, fifty feet apart and one hundred feet apart of one another. At a speed of ten miles an hour the procession majestically moved up the bay to the inner harbor and up the North river, closely hugging the Jersey shore. Every ship in the harbor and along the river fronts was dressed with gay bunting and the flags of all nations with the Stars and Stripes
in evidence everywhere.

After the head of the procession had reached the flagstaff anchored off Fifty-ninth street, it swung around the boat and started on its way back toward the battery. The people on shore and on the hundreds of vessels cheered and yelled themselves hoarse
when the Androscegon with Mr.
Roosevelt on board passed them. Mr.
Roosevelt remained upon the deck throughout the journey, viewing the scenes along the route with evident interest.

Battery Park and the streets leading to it were literally packed with spectators when the Androscegon reached Pier A, where Mr. Roosevelt once more stepped upon American soil. His appearance at the head of the few steps at the foot of which Mayor Gaynor awaited his arrival, was the signal for an outburst of enthusiasm the like of which New York has never before witnessed.

Together Mr. Roosevelt and Mayor Gaynor ascended the steps of the small platform, where the Mayor delivered his welcoming speech and Mr.
Roosevelt briefly responded. Owing to the tumult only the few persons on the platform and in its immediate vicinity could understand what was said.

CONNOR DECIDES TO BE CHAIRMAN

ACCEPTS THE HEAD OF THE RE-PUBLICAN STATE CAMPAIGN COMMITTEE.

WILL START CAMPAIGN SOON

Has Engaged Rooms For Headquarters in Milwaukee and Will be There on Monday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, June 18.—William D.
Connor, "Silent Bill" as he is called in political circles, has officially announced that he will accept the leadership of the Taft republican campaign committee and will begin this active operation on Monday not by opening the headquarters in Milwaukee.

It will be remembered that Connor was unanimously elected chairman by the Taft republican state convention at the Coliseum in this city some ten days ago at the time the organization of the reorganized republican party was effected. Previous to this organization Mr. Connor had been acting in the capacity of President Taft's personal representative in the state.

Working with Connor will be two members from each congressional district in the state also elected by the convention and an advisory board of five members which Mr. Connor will appoint himself. These gentlemen will handle the campaign for the election of Taft republicans to both state, legislative and congressional offices and boon the candidacy of the choice of the conservative republicans for United States senator. Thus far S. A.
Cook appears to be the only opponent to La Follette in the field. Mr. Cook came out some months ago in a statement that endorsed the administration of President Taft and the conservative republicans in congress and apparently has the field to himself in his race for the Senatorship.

His announcement came before the supreme court decided that the election at the fall primary for United States Senator was not binding upon the legislature and consequently the race and real fight will be the legislature. This is going to bother the campaign committee as it is understood that the La Follette managers have already been busy in this proposition and have pretty well covered the field having candidates out in nearly all the districts they have hopes of carrying.

The second fight will be on the Governorship. Thus far the only candidate who has avowed his allegiance to the Taft administration in this platform has been Senator E. T. Fairchild of Milwaukee. The other candidates, McGovern, Lewis, Strange and Barker are all known La Follette men and their platforms are sectional in the extreme.

The pressure that has been brought to bear to have Governor Davidson announce his candidacy is still being heard from in different parts of the state. It has taken the form of petitions, nomination papers in fact, but thus far it has not reached enough strength to be considered a serious complication.

It had been understood that Davidson would not run and Fairchild made his announcement on these grounds.
Then came the demand for Davidson and the Governor is alleged to have stated that he would not enter the race if Fairchild remained in the race.
This Fairchild says he will do as his friends demand he make the run as the matter lies.

It would be doubtless be the conservative republican candidate for Lt.
Governor if his candidacy, announced on the closing day of the state authority was correct, that he would be a candidate. He will have no opposition at least none is expected.

The only other candidate thus far in the field for a state office is M. C.
Cleary of Marshfieldville who seeks the office of insurance commissioner.
He will have the endorsement of the entire republican delegation in the last legislature and also of the republicans generally through the state.

Judge Levi Hancock, speaker of the last assembly, may be a candidate for the office of attorney-general and would also come under the head of being supported by the state organization of which he was the permanent chairman.

Fights will also be made in every congressional district against the so-called insurgents, congressmen, particularly in the first and second,
third and fourth where Ingalls, Capsper, Cooper, Gilbert is after Nelson and Page is seeking Carey's seat locked.

The fun will begin at once and predictions are that there will be a whirlwind campaign from now until the September primaries, with Connor in the lead all the way through.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

lean soil after an absence of 1 year and a few months. It was a glorious and enthusiastic welcome which was extended to him and New York took no pains to disguise the fact that it is proud of its famous son, the Nation's "foremost private citizen."
Of course, it was unavoidable to have some formal and official duties to the welcome, but they were few and of short duration and in no way interfered with the spontaneous manifestations of popular enthusiasm which remained at high tide throughout the day.

The liner Kaiserin Augusta Victoria, of which Mr. Roosevelt and his party crossed the Atlantic was due to arrive at Quarantine at 9 a. m., but several hours before the appointed hour navigable craft of every description began to assemble outside of the narrow. By the time the big liner reached Quarantine Island there were many hundreds of steamers, yachts, tugs, launches and other craft dotting
the water, making it somewhat difficult for the four revenue cutters detached to carry out the official part of the program, to make their way to the Kaiserin Augusta Victoria without causing an accident.

The four revenue cutters started from their dock at the battery shortly after six o'clock. First came the Androscegon with the reception committee on board; then the Mohawk with a delegation of congressmen and other distinguished persons; next the Manhattan bearing a large number of personal friends and relatives of Mr.
Roosevelt and finally the swift Seneca with the newspapermen and photographers. The small flotilla steamed down the bay, carefully threading its

The greeting by Mayor Gaynor was cordial and brief and while the enormous crowd was still cheering Mr.
Roosevelt and the members of the reception committee took their places in the carriages lined up near the platform and a few moments later
the procession of carriages started upon its way up Broadway toward Central Park. A fine looking body of one thousand policemen headed the procession of carriages and about three hundred Rough Riders, including among them John R. Abernathy of wolf-dog-fighting fame and his two sons, one only six, the other nine years old, who had come on horseback from Oklahoma to welcome Mr.
Roosevelt.

All along Broadway, from the battery to Fourth street, to Fifth Avenue and up that aristocratic thoroughfare to the Plaza there was a dense mass of people, occupying every inch of space excepting enough of the roadway to allow the procession to pass.
Every building was decorated and the enthusiasm of the crowds on the streets, in the windows of the buildings and even on the roofs was unlimited. There was no end to the cheering so long as Mr. Roosevelt's carriage was in sight. The procession was disbanded at Fifty-ninth and Mr. Roosevelt drove rapidly away to John M. Roosevelt who had been entertained by the daughters of the American Revolution at a luncheon at Sherry's where he could see the parade passing on Fifth Avenue. Mr.
and Mrs. Roosevelt and the other members of their family later took a train for their summer home at Oyster Bay.

QUITE A SNAP FOR HUBBY

How Mean Man Turned to His Own Account the Latest Fad of His Wife.

"My wife has a new fad," announced the fat man with the red face as he cheerfully stirred the mixture before him with a long straw. "She is going in for hypnosis now, and it has my sincere and emphatic endorsement. She has taken 12 lessons from a noted professor of the art, and is now a full-fledged hypnotist—or thinks she is, which amounts to the same thing so far as she is concerned. I was her first subject, and her success with me not only pleased her, but astonished her as well. At first I rebelled at being experimented with, thinking it all tommyrot; but I am now prepared to endorse the art to its full extent. She got me in a chair and then, standing in front of me, went through a lot of monkey shins before my face with her hands. "Now," she said sternly, "you cannot leave your chair."

"Just to see what her game was I gave her the glassy eye and made no move. Her eyes gleamed with triumph, and then she said: "Listen to me. You must no longer drink intoxicating liquor. If you do it will make you sick. You will find it impossible to lift a glass of the vile stuff to your lips. You cannot even enter a place where it is sold."

"Then she brought me out of the trance by snapping her fingers and announced that her experiment was a complete success."

"Now the dear woman remains at home serenely confident that I am no longer able to indulge in the flowing bowl, and my plea of being detained late at the office goes without question. Let's have another."

ANOTHER THAW CASE IN CHICAGO COURTS

Sadie Finkelstein Accuses Wealthy Merchant Of Drugging Her Lemonade and Mistreating Her.

Chicago, June 18.—Sadie Finkelstein, of 5719 South Sangamon street, an 18-year-old girl, is suing Samuel Lyons, a wealthy west side furniture dealer, for $25,000 on a charge of assault. Her story greatly resembles that told by Evelyn Thaw about Stanford White.

According to the girl's story, she and a friend, Sophie Mitchell, 198 West Twentieth street, had just returned from a matinee on the fifteenth of last January and were eating ice cream in a store at Eighteenth

Wood Favored for Violins. "On my last trip through country towns," said a traveling man, "I met a drummer who had a queer side-line. He was buying up old church organs and was shipping the wood back to a violin manufacturer in New York. He said that the maker of violins thought that wood that had done service in one of those little cabinet organs was the best he could find for the average fiddle and he paid that drummer a small commission on every worn-out organ he could pick up."

and South Halsted streets, when Lyons entered accompanied by Louis Hirschfeld, 719 Maxwell street, manager in one of Lyons' establishments. Lyons, who was introduced to Miss Finkelstein by the Mitchell girl, suggested that they go to Sadie's saloon at Twenty-Eighth and State streets to drink lemonade.

"When I first placed the glass to my lips I noticed a peculiar taste to the lemonade, but thought nothing of it at the time. Soon, however, I began to feel dizzy and my head swam around and around until I almost lost consciousness. I immediately asked to be taken out into the air, where I thought I would feel better, and Mr. Lyons assisted me to the street. Taking me by the arm he led me to the rooming house at Thirtieth street and Wabash avenue, where I willingly went, not knowing the nature of the place and thinking he was endeavoring to assist me."

Hirschfeld, who was next called to the stand, denied that Miss Finkelstein had been drugged, and stated that they remained in the hotel but 20 minutes. Lyons, who lives at 1038 South Winchester avenue, is the wealthy proprietor of a large merchandise establishment at 1128 South Halsted street and owner of several branch stores throughout the city. He sat through the session with a passive expression on his face, from which he constantly wiped the perspiration with a handkerchief. The jury's verdict favored the girl.

Smoking In Ancient Days.

It seems very probable that there were smokers in England long before the introduction of tobacco, according to the London Chronicle. Pipes have been discovered imbedded in the mortar of churches built before Europe's first acquaintance with tobacco, and it seems only reasonable to suppose that the people of that day smoked herbs of some sort either medicinally or for pleasure. Cattlefoot was inhaled for asthma, though whether a pipe was used in the process remains a matter for conjecture.

Pride That Had a Fall.

It was standing among his fellows, this lion of the salon of the Independent Artists, telling what art and life meant to him, when he was approached by a matter-of-fact citizen, who wanted to know, "Can you tell me," he asked, looking straight into the eyes of the great man "if these here darned pictures were done by real artists or just amateurs?"

Eagle Made Things Lively.

J. E. Martin, a forest ranger of Injuna-Vista, Cal., was attacked by an eagle the other afternoon while riding down the mountain side, and, being unarmed, was compelled finally to seek protection among some thick bushes. The big bird circled about him several times and darted down upon his head, tearing his scalp and lacerating his face.

Big Demand for Talent.

Scenarios for moving picture plays are asked for. "If you have never tackled writing a scenario," a circular says, "it doesn't matter. All we want is a good idea as to what would constitute a good story to be shown on the screen—comedy, tragedy, drama or educational." In explanation of the circular a man in the business said that the moving picture as a means of amusement had assumed such gigantic proportions that now talent must be secured to satisfy the demand for novelties.

Some Pertinent Tire Facts of Interest to Automobile Owners

THERE seems to be a wide spread idea among automobile owners that it does not pay to have an old tire retreaded or rebuilt.

They say, "Why should I pay $12.00 or $15.00 for a retreaded 30x3 1/2 case when I can get a new one for $30.00?" That is good enough as far as it goes, but, Mr. Owner, are you sure of getting your guaranteed mileage out of that case? If you cut it or run it flat you cannot expect the tire company to replace it and you are $30.00 out. To be sure, every company guarantees its tire against defects for 3500 miles but none of the leading manufacturers has to replace more than 2 to 3 per cent of its output. That does not mean that only that many give full mileage. Not more than 10 per cent of the tires sent in for replacement are allowed. The tire companies may not admit this, but it is so and very few companies refuse a just claim for replacement.

What Does Your Money Earn?

Now, to go back, Mr. Owner. Where is your money earning you the most, in the bank or in a tire? Taking the same tire, 30x3 1/2, for example: we will retread it for you for $12.00. Now it would cost you at least $30.00 and it is guaranteed 3500 miles. Our retread costs you but $12.00 and is guaranteed for 1400 miles. If you get a puncture while out in a rainstorm and run in on a flat tire you only lose $14.00 on a retread. If you have a new one you stand to lose $30.00. It's up to you, Mr. Owner. Where is that $18.00 difference doing you the most good? Tied up in a tire or in the bank drawing interest?

We guarantee our work according to price and figures the same as the guarantee on a new tire and you have the balance of the price of a new tire earning the money for another job.

And That's Not All. Mr. Owner, suppose you have a tire go wrong and you send it into the factory for an adjustment. How long do you have to wait before finding whether you will ever get a replacement or not? It's safe to say it will be a month before you get satisfaction. We are here, not in Akron, New York or Germany. Bring your tire back to us if you are not satisfied. We will tell you in ten minutes whether it is your fault or ours. You can get more genuine satisfaction out of a ten-minute talk than a month's correspondence.

And Furthermore If the job is not right we'll make it right. We've got to do so to hold your trade. If you have ruined it through a lack of the proper care we will explain to you how to avoid the same thing again. It's up to you, Mr. Owner. Which is the better to tie your money up in—tires or real estate? To wait for a month to get an adjustment or get it at once? Call and see us and get our prices on other sizes and jobs. We will give you some more facts in our next ad.

CARVER'S GREAT SHOW AT YOST PARK

Splendid Crowd See The Brave Girl Ride a High Diving Horse.

Poised like a bird on a branch, the "Girl in Red" sat on the seaford yesterday afternoon at Yost Park waiting for the horse to come up which was to carry her on her mad leap, putting back little wings of hair that floated in her face. When Cupid, the clown, came up and stood on the high treble work beside her, it made a picture worth seeing.

Cupid looked out across the country and then turned toward the immense crowd that packed every seat and all the standing room at Electric Hall park, as if to say, "You poor humans, don't you wish you could fly with me?"

With a pleasant nod toward the crowd the girl swung lightly on the horse's back. Cupid turned his head to see the fair rider, and then edged back by her side the sloping platform.

The daring coolness of the girl, the breathlessness of the vast crowd, the delicate thread which was the girl's chance for life, the bravery of the horse in attempting such a feat, made it a scene that few could look at without trembling.

The "Girl in Red" tangled her hands in the horse's mane tighter and leaned forward on the flying streak.

A wave of Indian breaths passed the crowd. A baby gave a stifled cry which sounded as loud as a man's shout. And then the flying pair struck the water.

Still no sound broke from the gathering throng. For a second, although it seemed much longer, slight was lost of the pair as they sank in the water. Half way across the tank a slim, stock, dark object appeared. It was Cupid's nose. Then the head, followed by the neck. On the back of the horse still holding her position the brave rider came up.

As a mermaid comes out of the ocean on a sunshiny morning so came the "Girl in Red" out of the tank. She gave her head a quick toss, flinging aside the water and then waved her hand.

And not until then did the vast audience breathe freely again. With that a storm of hand clapping and wild cheers burst forth.

EXTORTION AROUSES BANKERS.

Iowa Association Asks New Law Aimed at "Black Handers."

Des Moines, Ia., June 18.—Threats against bankers made by "black hand" societies caused the Iowa State Bankers' association to pass a resolution favoring the amending of the extorting law relative to the crime of extortion. The bankers ask that the law be changed, making the crime punishable by a longer sentence than two years. It was agreed also that a standing reward be made available for the conviction of extorters.

Among the resolutions passed was one favoring the exemption from taxation of savings deposits in banks and trust companies to an amount not exceeding $3,000. The bankers also went on record favoring a bill for the appointment of a tax commission to revise the tax laws of the state, which the bankers claim in many instances are grossly unfair.

SENATE APPROVES RAIL BILL.

Adopts Conference Report by a Vote of 50 Yeas to 11 Nays.

Washington, June 18.—The senate placed its final stamp of approval on the administration railroad bill, which has been pending in one stage or another almost since the beginning of the session, by adopting the report of the conference committee on that measure.

The vote came at the close of a day devoted to a fragmentary discussion of the measure, and was without special feature. The report prevailed by a large majority, the yeas being 50 and the nays 11. All of the negative votes were cast by Democrats and Senators Chamberlain, Clay, McEmery, Simmons, Stone and Taylor united with the Republicans in support of the bill.

MILLIONS IN GRAIN FRAUDS?

Winnipeg, Man., June 18.—There is a sensation in elevator circles at Port William and Port Arthur in consequence of the action of Elevator Commissioner Castle in sealing up the bins of several terminal elevators where the manipulation of grades has been carried on. It is alleged, on gigantic scales. It is believed millions of dollars have been realized by men who have made a study of the manipulation and have been in a position to work the game in spite of government inspection.

TWENTY-THREE DIE FROM HEAT.

Chicagoans Suffer From Terrible Wave—Eight Persons Bitten by Dogs.

Chicago, June 18.—Three more victims were added to the score of those whose deaths were caused directly by the heat wave which has held the city gasping for relief during the past 24 hours. Indirectly the terrible wave caused the death of a baby, who fell from a window where the infant had been placed for a breath of cool air. Eight persons were overcome by the sun and eight were bitten by vicious dogs believed to have been driven mad by the heat.

Even the $1000 Car Passes 10,000 Tests

The Overland factory turns out one car each four minutes. Yet every engine is tested for hours. Every chassis is given a trial run on the road. The various parts, from beginning to end, pass more than 10,000 rigid inspections. For the prestige of the Overland, and its future success, depends on the utter perfection of each individual car.

The All-Important Tests

Each part of the Overland, after each operation, is submitted to rigid inspection. In many of the parts exactness is required to one ten-thousandth part of an inch. The slightest variation—the minutest flaw—requires the part to be discarded.

All parts are interchangeable. That means that should any part become broken any similar part in our whole output could immediately take its place. Sometimes that means a great deal to the owner.

Each Overland car—after passing all other tests—is put to the final test in a run on rough roads. One of our roads used for testing includes the most difficult hill in Ohio.

Thus we know that each Overland—before it goes out—is all that an Overland should be.

The Winning Simplicity

The Overland engine, in the long run, becomes the fascinating part of this car. Many an owner has run from 7,000 to 10,000 miles without even cleaning a spark plug.

It is all-enduring—almost trouble-proof—capable of coping with any condition. It is this engine—the very heart of the car—which wins all the big successes.

But the car's matchless simplicity is the feature which wins one first. The designers of the Overland have immensely reduced the usual number of parts. One invention alone has taken the place of 47 separate parts. Thus the care of the car has been simplified.

The lubrication has been made automatic. We have done away with the usual complex pump. Three of the Overland models operate by pedal control. Push a pedal forward to go ahead, and backward to reverse. Push another pedal forward to get on high speed. It is as simple as walking. The hands have nothing to do but steer.

A child can master the car in ten minutes. A novice can run it a thousand miles and back.

COTTON MEN ARE INDICTED

JAMES A. PATTEN AND SEVEN OTHERS FACE CHARGE OF CONSPIRACY.

ANTI-TRUST LAW VIOLATED

Accusation Hits Men Alleged to Have Engineered Recent Bull Pool—
Each Gives $5,000 Bond and Released—Deny Forming Agreement.

New York, June 18.—James A. Patten and seven others were indicted by a special federal grand jury, charged with conspiracy in restraint of trade under the Sherman anti-trust law. This is the first fruit of the government's attempt to prove that manipulating the cotton market is against the law. It is alleged that the accused men formed a pool for the purpose of cornering and arbitrarily fixing the price of cotton.

Their bail was fixed at $5,000 each by Judge Hough. All of them gave bond through the National Surety company and were immediately released.

The men indicted are: James A. Patten of Chicago, W. P. Brown of New Orleans, Frank H. Hayne of New Orleans, Eugene C. Sealos of Texas, Sidney J. Hornum, Robert M. Thompson and Charles A. Kittle of New York, Morris R. Rothschild of Mississippi.

The indictments were handed up to Judge Hough in the United States circuit court. The defendants were represented by former United States Senator John C. Spooner, Henry Wellman and Joseph P. Cotton.

Urged for Cabinet.

Col. Robert M. Thompson, one of the indicted men, was strongly urged for secretary of the navy when President Taft was forming his cabinet. He is a South Carolinian and for years was prominent in the politics of that state before he was brought to New York to occupy an important position with the New York Life Insurance company.

The investigation, which resulted in the indictments was begun April 18, at the direct order of Attorney General Wickersham. It will be recalled that all through the sensational rise in the cotton market last winter, Mr. Patten and the men associated with him in the bull movement, took advantage of every occasion to deny that they had formed an agreement of any sort. This will be their defense when their cases are called for trial next fall.

Indictment Embraces Five Counts.

The blanket indictment contains more than 20,000 words and embraces five counts. The first count charges that the defendants on the first day of January, 1910, conspired with certain corporations that are spinners and manufacturers of cotton, to control the price of the raw material. The corporations were not indicted.

The indictment then goes on to give a description of the trade and commerce which it is alleged was sought to be monopolized and states that "cotton has been and is an article of prime necessity to the people of the United States and the growing of the same has necessitated the cultivation of many millions of acres of land, and that the spinners and manufacturers were co-conspirators with the men indicted."

DANISH OFFICIAL IS ACQUITTED.
Ex-Premier Christensen Not Guilty of Complicity With Alberti.

Copenhagen, June 18.—The high state court acquitted former Premier J. C. Christensen of complicity with former Minister of Justice Alberti in extensive frauds. Former Minister of the Interior Borg was found guilty and fined $250.

Alberti, who resigned as minister of justice in September, 1908, surrendered to the police and confessed a long career of crime. He had, he declared, embezzled large sums from a savings bank of which he was president, most of which had been lost in speculating in American securities. Estimates of Alberti's stealings went as high as $5,000,000.

READ GAZETTE WANT ADS

In youth our impulse is to spend rather than save and many an old man is a care to his community or state, or worse still, to his own family because he did not save while he was in his youth. The surest and best way to save is to buy 20 year endowment policy—you get bigger returns on your money—you get protection for your family—you get the CASH for the face of the policy together with your share of the earnings of the company, and many other advantages which are explained below.

A 20 year payment policy in the Aetna Life Insurance Co., one of the biggest and strongest in the world—means peace, content, good digestion and sound sleep. The Aetna issues the fairest policy in the world. Don't let clever solicitors try to make you think other policies are as good. Come here and investigate the Aetna. If the Aetna was not the best we couldn't advertise it. Here are some of the features of the 20 year endowment policy.

If the policy is in force one year, it is incontestable EXCEPT FOR NON-PAYMENT OF PREMIUMS.

You will share in the earnings of the company, which earnings may be applied on the premiums, or they can be made to hasten the maturity of the contract.

You can borrow money of the policy as per Table "A." At the end of second year $54.00, third year $91.48, etc. You can apply the loan as payment of premium. If two or more years full premiums have been paid and there is no indebtedness on account of loans, the policy will be extended as temporary insurance for the full sum insured, including dividend additions, for the length of time shown in the table "A" under the column "Extended Insurance," and at the end of the 20 years the company will also pay in cash the amount in table "A" under the column "Pure Endowment." As an example: Suppose you paid four years and then stopped; you would receive 17 years of $1000 insurance and $28 in cash at the end of that time; at 5 years you get 16 years' insurance and $109 cash, etc.

If the policy should lapse for non-payment of premiums, it can be re-insured at any time within five years by paying the amount due with interest. If satisfactory evidence of insurability is furnished to the company.

Suppose you became totally disabled from sickness or accident, or became blind, or if you lost both hands or both feet or one hand and one foot, on payment of one year's premium, then your premiums on this policy stop and the company pays you one-twentieth of the policy each year until the full sum of the policy has been paid, or pays all in one sum if you let it accumulate.

Suppose you saved your money in a bank—you would get 3 to 5 per cent interest. If you put your money into this policy you share in the earnings of the company which last year on one of these 20-year endowment policies held by a Janesville resident amounted to over 15 per cent.

Freedom from Restrictions: The contract is free from conditions as to residence, occupation, travel or place of death. Grace in Payment of Premium: Grace of thirty-one days, during which time the contract will remain in full force, will be allowed in the payment of all premiums.

NO MAN CAN AFFORD TO BE WITHOUT INSURANCE

Think of the benefit it would be to wife and family or mother, if you should be called by death. Think of the great amount you would get all in one sum at the expiration of the policy, and then consider that it really costs you nothing except the interest on the money you would be saving. Read over the above carefully, see how you can borrow money on the policy, how it will carry itself, how you can be reinstated within five years if you should lapse.

INSURE YOUR WIFE

and make the $1000.00 payable to your child, you will be saving just that much money and all during the twenty years your wife is insured. Every rich man is insured heavily, every poor man needs it even more.

Many men are insured, but their wives are not, yet no man would insure one-half of his house and not the other. Insurance is as necessary on the mother of a family as on the father. Now is the best time to consider this matter. Every day, every month you put it off you are getting older—your rate is getting higher and no one knows when it will be too late.

Life insurance is a privilege. If it is within your reach today secure it today—tomorrow may be too late. We write the best policy in the world and with one of the strongest old line companies.

If you take out a policy with us you deal with an agency that has been established 36 years, an agency that has looked to the interest of its clients in a most thorough manner. During these 36 years of experience we have found that our companies are of the best in the world, and that it is wise to deal with a permanent established agency. Take out a policy with us and it will mature with us. Don't deal with an agent who is here today and gone tomorrow.

NOTE:—The advertising campaign of this company has created a revival interest in insurance and many of the insurance agents of both large and small competing companies have tried to take advantage of it by claiming to be "Just as Good." They are not just as good. If they were they wouldn't have to use such arguments. The Aetna offers the best policy in the world that is why we are advertising it.

Write us to send you a sample policy so that you can read it over carefully, or if you prefer, we will call and explain the policy to you. Fill out the coupon right now.

Do not let this important matter go another day.

WOMAN'S PAGEThe Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

"H I KNOW not what to say, and so be sworn," runs the quotation. Do you know, there are times when it seems to me that would not be as bad as the course most of us take when we don't know what to say?

We are all in a case. We are self-conscious. We are foolishly scared of a pause. We know not what to say, and so be sworn, and like so on say something we will be heartily sorry for or much ashamed of when we come to think it over afterwards.

The most stupid, the most lame, the most unfortunate things I have said in the course of my life have always been under just these conditions.

I have felt that I must say something, and I have stumbled wildly on into epistolical and lame and mislabeled remarks that I have often regretted bitterly for very long afterwards.

Anyone will admit that he regrets the thing he said three times as often as the thing he left unsaid.

Why, then, don't we take a lesson from that, and when we have nothing very desirable to say, shut our mouths and say it.

Why not in your case substitute for,

"I know not what to say, and so be sworn,"

"I know not what to say, and so be sworn."

If it were practical that there might be some sort of a regulation forbidding the wearing of elaborate clothes to church, it seems to me it would be a mighty good movement for the churches of this country to take up.

But since a regulation would be almost, if not quite, impossible to form and enforce, I wish you—that means the women I write to—would do a little thinking on the subject for yourself and perhaps put a few private regulations into force.

It does not seem to me as if the house of God were the place for the display of elaborate gowns that we so often see there.

In the first place, few women can have on their best clothes without thinking about them, and thereby neglecting the service.

In the second place, few women can see other women's best clothes without thinking of them, and thereby neglecting the service.

And in the third place—I put it third for emphasis—not by any means because I think it least important—because if the rich or comfortably well off women of the church wear their elaborate gowns, contrasting as they do with the humble garments of some of the poorer women, it brings caste into the church, and if there is any place on earth where caste ought not to be, it is certainly in the house of God, where all of us pray of being brothers and sisters.

Of course, I do not think one should dress dowdily for church—only very simply and quietly.

There is nothing more saddening to my mind in our religious world than to see a church congregation become a fashion show. If the love of display, the burning interest in "what will I shall be clothed," dominate even here, where can we find sanctimony from them?

Think it over, my friends.

Make the experiment of wearing one of your simplest gowns next Sunday and see if a sweeter, holier and more peaceful feeling does not come to you as you try to worship your God in the "beauty of holiness" instead of in the splendor of your best clothes.

NATIONAL CONGRESS OF MOTHERS PLANS GREAT WORK IN INTEREST OF CHILDREN.

MRS. FREDERICK SCHOFF

Denver, Colo.—Delegates poured in from many states to the National Congress of Mothers, the first meeting of which was held June 16. The president of this organization, Mrs. Frederick Schoff of Philadelphia, has been devoting her time during the last year to the organization of Mothers' clubs over the country. Mrs. Sarah Platt Decker is active in the cause. The delegates were composed of great grandmothers, grandmothers and mothers, who have banded themselves together in a countrywide campaign for a healthier generation of children in the United States.

According to the president, 22 states are fully organized and 20 more are partly so.

The congresses everywhere are advocating the teaching of hygiene in schools and the spread of the juvenile court movement. Besides, this national parent association have been formed for training mothers to the proper care of their children in an attempt to reduce the frightful death rate of children under 5 years of age. Where such associations exist Mrs. Schoff said that the death rate has decreased 40 per cent.

BLACK AND WHITE CHAPEAU.

Almost all dressy hats are feather trimmed, and the majority are in black and white. We show today a hat of black Neuropolitain with an artistic arrangement of white plumes. Colored plumes, if desired, would be equally effective if put on in same manner. The shape of hat is new and good.

Advertising, as now practiced, is not a lottery. The history of modern business successes proves every penny wisely spent will pay.

CHILDREN'S RIGHTS.

BY MARY HENRIE.
Did you ever sit in a crowded car and think how you would like to be a child and always just come up to the knees of those about you?

If the weather be rainy the odor of working clothes is abominable, and the fetid smell of unwashed bodies is a menace to health. Any one who realizes that a child in the crowd is in about the same relation to those about him will have food for some hard thinking.

Why do children take infectious diseases when no one can imagine a chance for exposure? Because they have been half smothered in the clothes that hang in some infected home while shopping with mother in some department store.

The air which is bad enough in a crowd at the level of grown people is a positive menace to health down in the strata where the children breathe.

When a child is taken in crowded places it should be sheltered as far as possible by a group of grown people. Does that sound like nonsense? Have you the theory that since you have been brought up without a thought of these things that it is unworthy of consideration?

If you are bringing your children up just as you were raised by your mother you are blocking the wheels of progress.

The hope of the nation is the child, and yet we see the joy of life destroyed for the child without a thought of being to blame.

If you have never experienced the sensation I speak of get out the next rainy day and ride surrounded by the miscellaneous crowd in a car for a few blocks. You will at least have gained a valuable experience if you escape smallpox.

We so often see small children being dragged along by one hand, small and flimsy little legs in the air, by some mother or father, who hurries along with brooding legs which are trotting bravely along out of range of vision. Suppose you try that for the sake of experience.

This is not exactly cruelty, but it is thoughtlessness. I saw one mother who had arranged a little stick, like an abbreviated cane. This had a secure handle for the child to clutch, and one by which she could hold fast to the other end. This was a fairly successful method of solving the problem, but still left much to be desired.

It all resolves itself into the conclusion that the child when very young should be taken into safe and pleasant places for his outings. It is not fair to keep any child too securely sheltered. It must begin sometime to take a certain amount of responsibility for its own well being. But it does not pay to run this theory of independence too far. It is always wise to temper theory with thought.

Use your brain and try to put yourself in the child's place. No one believes that the parent who loves a child will willfully mistreat it, but some things that are seen on the streets shake one's confidence in the thoughtfulness of these elders.

STOVE PIPE AND CHIMNEY CLEANING POWDER.

Take dust one ounce, sulphur powder three ounces, fine sawdust one ounce. Mix well, put on brick fire and clear all the lids; one-half of this quantity will be enough to clean stovepipes, and the whole amount will clean the chimney as well.

SUGGESTION FOR THE BRIDE-TO-BE.

A gown patterned after the above model is included in the trousseau of a June bride and is considered quite stunning. The material is pale gray, muslinette over self-toned satin. Braiding as designated in sketch is done in gray silk-gossamer. Note the unique arrangement of tunic at ankle depth of skirt where the two sides are joined by an elaborate piece of braiding. The surplice bodice and short top sleeves are also braided. Chemise, stock and puffed undersleeves are white lace run with silver threads. An unusual grille, starting in front under a ruffled collar and ending in a bow at back, is black pique velvet.

The Relic Mill.

The veteran, stroking his long white whiskers, looked over the landscape with glittering eye. "Yes," he said excitedly, "here's where we fought and licked 'em. Have you got any relics of the battle?" "Sure," replied the guide. "John, go back to the forge and mould the gentleman a pound of bullets and tell the blacksmith to hammer out one of them broken officers' swords."

Nothing like it, nothing so good, no stain and complete without a can. Ask McNamee and Sheldon Hardware Co.

PIANO PRICES

When you buy a piano at our salesroom you get what you pay for.

We cannot give you for $300 an instrument worth $500, nor do we pretend to do so. All we can do is to give you full value for the money you invest. No one else can do more.

Some of our pianos are priced higher than others, because it costs more to make them—they are better instruments and worth more money.

We do not attempt to enter into price competition with cheap pianos represented as having extraordinary merit. We could offer instruments of inferior grades, make exaggerated claims for them and sell them at apparently bargain prices.

But we would rather be fair with our patrons and have a business founded on the confidence of the public—and the only way we have discovered is to give every purchaser a full equivalent for his money and without recourse to flattery statements.

You can find pianos here higher in price than you see at most piano stores. You can also find instruments marked at very moderate prices. You can make your choice knowing that in any case you are paying no premiums over the real value of the one you select.

We handle no stenciled pianos.

Contractor Edward Donehoe returned yesterday from Columbus, Wis., where he secured a contract to erect a new $50,000 high school building of the most modern construction. The edifice will be of brick with Bedford stone trimmings, the partitions, and decorated floors and walls, with the inside of the outer walls lined with hollow tile, and must be completed by July 1, 1911. Work will be started at once. Columbus is located in Columbia county, northwest of Watertown.

R. F. D. MEN AS THE NEW WEATHERCOCKS

Congressman Presents Bill to Compel Them to Carry Weather Flags on Their Rigs.

To extend the United States weather bureau service to the rural districts, by making every rural mail carrier a holder of official predictions, is the idea of Representative McHenry, democrat, who has introduced a bill to this effect. Mr. McHenry proposes in his bill to have every vehicle in the rural mail delivery service equipped with flags denoting weather predictions for the day. The rural mail wagons, thus, on leaving their starting point each day, would fly from their tops flags which would indicate to every farmer and country resident the opinion of the government forecasters as to what the weather will be for the next twenty-four hours.

Suspension or dismissal from service is fixed in the bill as a penalty for failure or refusal of rural carrier to comply with its terms.

ALDERMEN FAVOR A NEW STEEL BRIDGE

Majority of Those Who Inspected Fourth Ave. Structure Opposed to Spending $1,200 on Doubtful Repair.

That it would be economy in the end to replace the ransacked old Fourth avenue bridge with a $20,000 steel and concrete structure rather than to expend $1,200 on repairs which could, at best, only be a temporary expedient, was the consensus of opinion of the delegation consisting of Mayor Curie and nine of the City Fathers who inspected the premises last evening. Alderman Dulin was the only absentee and Alderman Brown was the single member of the common council who did not accept such conclusions as inevitable. And even he was not certain that he might not say "aye" when the plan of building a new bridge comes to a vote.

City Engineer Kerch's plans which were partially drawn a year or two ago can be readily completed as soon as the new laws for location are determined. By filling in for the approaches and thereby pushing the river boundary. There some distance towards mid-stream, the structure needed to span the stream can be materially shortened and several thousands dollars saved.

Advertising for bids and other preliminaries will consume considerable time and it is hardly likely that actual construction work can be commenced before autumn. In the meantime the bridge will be permanently closed to traffic.

Increased Length of Life.

BALL GAMES BOTH TODAY AND SUNDAY

Commercial League Has Double-Header This Afternoon and "Cubs" Play Tomorrow.

With a double-header this afternoon at the new Commercial League park, recently purchased and improved by President Charles Connel, between the Y. M. C. A. vs. Waukegan Mills and the Parker Pen vs. the Lewis & Kauffman Company, the new schedule of the city league will be in full swing. Following the plan adopted at the last meeting of the directors, admission will be charged for the purpose of paying the expenses of the league. The Chicago team for whom a game has been scheduled, will meet the Machine Company's team this afternoon at Monongah park where the annual picnic of the company's employees is being held today.

Game Tomorrow.

Sunday afternoon the Janesville "Cubs" will hook up with the Rockford "Marquetts" at Athletic Park in Spring Brook. With the "Cubs" now going at top speed and the "Marquetts" touted as being one of the best amateur teams in the Forest City, some contest is expected. Adams will do the twisting for the home and either Porter or Doran will catch. For Rockford, Anderson or Doran will work on the mound with Ross on the relieving end. This will probably be the last chance that Janesville fans will have of seeing the fast amateur aggregation in action as, according to present plans, they are booked to play away from home the remainder of the season.

The Ticklemouse

—and his Sleepyland Adventures

By Roy Rutherford Bailey with Davy and Dorfy

Playing Detective

"SH-H-III. Quiet now, everybody!" whispered the Ticklemouse, leading the way out of the nursery window and across the moonlit fields.

It was an odd little band that followed him. Teddy bear, Davy and Dorfy, Willy Wishywasheer—even the Ticklemouse himself—were all dressed in black trench coats and long black coats. Each wore, beside a black mask which after a few miles of hard walking seemed more bother than it was worth.

"What's the sense of these miserable masks, anyhow, Uncle Tick?" Willy stopped again to blow the ravelings out of his mouth. "The loose threads keep getting in a fellow's mouth so, how are you supposed to breathe in the things?" "It is rather a tiresome rig, I'll admit," said his uncle, "but it's all necessary in detective work. 'Tired, Dorfy?'"

"A little; it's pretty far, isn't it?" The Mouse stopped and lifted the little girl. "You give Davy a lift, Teddy—you're good and strong. It isn't much farther now."

"Here's the house," he said soon after. "There's a plot on foot to rob it tonight, and we must foil the villain. We'll all climb this tree, and from its branches we can look right into the house and see all that's going on."

When they had settled themselves among the leaves and boughs, they could see a lonely man sitting before his dying fire. "Who is he?" asked Davy, in a whisper.

"He's the man who has naught," said the Mouse. "That's why the robbers are coming to rob him—it makes such a good joke on them. Mother Goose says, Look! Isn't that something moving, over there in the shadow of the woods?"

Sure enough, there were three black figures with long cloaks and drawn swords, stealing from the forest to surround the little house. The man by the fire raised his head and listened as if he heard sounds that startled him. There were no shutters on the windows, and soon a wicked face scowled at him. Then another, and another. The robbers were upon him at last!

Grabbing his empty purse, he jumped into the open fireplace, the hot ashes flying as he scrambled up inside the chimney. Crash! went the door in splinters, and the three robbers were before the fireplace. "We've got him!" cried one. "Smoke the varmint out!" roared the other two, tossing fresh kindling on the smoldering coals.

But they laughed too soon. From their perch in the treetop, the five friends saw the poor man pop his frightened head out of the chimney top and scramble off the roof, never even stopping for breath, though he was half choked with smoke and covered with soot and ashes. Down the long turnpike he sped, while the angry robbers looked everywhere for him, cellar to garret, before they discovered his escape.

"I declare to goodness!" exclaimed the Ticklemouse on their way home, "if I didn't forget all about our plan to rescue the poor fellow! It was such an interesting performance, the detective game clean slipped my mind."

"And will the robbers catch him?" The twins trembled at the thought.

"Not unless he looks behind him," laughed the Mouse. "You remember the rhyme, don't you? That fellow's a regular human ostrich—as long as he can't see them chasing him he's safe."

"He's a speedy lot, too, Uncle Tick," added Willy. "Why, that man has a sprinting record of fourteen-fifteenths miles per twenty-four hours—I read it with my own little eyes in Mother Goose's racing reports!"

Beautiful China at Dalmoral. There is a good deal of beautiful china at Dalmoral, one of the most interesting sets being a Sevres desert service, which is painted with scenes of Highland life and sport by Landseer. This is placed in a cabinet in the blue drawing room, the windows of which command a most beautiful view, says Woman's Life. The late Queen Victoria was one of Landseer's warmest admirers and purchased many of his works.

The Optimist's Corner

Daily Helps to Health and Happiness

By GEORGE F. BUTLER, A. M., M. D.

That some very poor people die on account of improper and insufficient food is undoubtedly true; but many more people die from eating too much than from eating too little; vastly more from excess than from starvation. So as to clothing, many shiver from want of defence against the cold; but many more are suffering among the rich from absurd and criminal modes of dress which fashion has sanctioned than among the poor from insufficient clothing. Our daughters are often brought to the grave by their rich attire than our beggars by their nakedness. So the poor are often over-worked; but they suffer less than many among the rich who have no work to do nor interesting object to fill up life to satisfy the infinite cravings of man for action. Ennui and satiety, miseries unknown to the poor, are more intolerable than the weariness of excessive toil or the pangs of hunger.

There is more true benevolence exhibited by the poorest than the wealthiest classes. If you are poor you may still be rich in the possession of a big soul, a kind heart and a philosophic, cheerful temperament. There are martyrs that miss the palm, but not the stake; there are heroes without the laurel, and conquerors without the triumph.

ALL WRONG.
The Mistake Is Made by Many Janesville Citizens.

Don't mistake the cause of backache.

To be cured you must know the cause.

It is wrong to imagine relief is cure.

Backache is kidney ache.

You must cure the kidneys.

A Janesville resident tells you how.

Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson, 53 Terrace St., Janesville, Wis., says: "I was a sufferer from rheumatism and kidney trouble for ten or twelve years, and during that time I had some bad spells. I did not have much pain, but was constantly annoyed by a swelling of my joints. I could find nothing that would give me relief until four years ago when I heard of Doan's Kidney Pills. I felt better soon after beginning their use. I have no kidney ache now at all. I have not been without a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills in the house since then. I heartily recommend them to other kidney sufferers."

The COURAGE of CAPTAIN PLUM

By JAMES OLIVER CURWOOD
Illustrations by MAGNUS K. KEINER

"Now," said Captain Plum, distributing the gold pieces among his pockets, "I'll take that package."

This time the old man was gone for several minutes. When he returned he placed a small package tightly bound and sealed into his companion's hand.

"More precious than your life, more precious than gold," he whispered tensely, "yet worthless to all but the one to whom it is to be delivered."

There were no marks on the package.

"And who is that?" asked Captain Plum.

The old man came so close that his breath fell hot upon the young man's cheek. He lifted a hand as though to ward sound from the very walls that closed them in.

"Franklin Pierce, president of the United States of America!"

CHAPTER II.

Hardly had the words fallen from the lips of Obadiah Price than the old man straightened himself and stood as rigid as a gargoyle, his gaze penetrating into the darkness of the room beyond Captain Plum. His hand inclined slightly, every nerve in him strained to a tension of expectancy. His companion, involuntarily gripped the butt of his pistol and faced the narrow entrance through which they had come. In the moment of absolute silence that followed there came to him, faintly, a sound, unintelligible at first, but growing in volume until he knew that it was the last echo of a tolling bell. There was no movement, no sound of breath or whisper from the old man at his back. But when it came again, flooding to him as if from a vast distance, he turned quickly to find Obadiah Price with his face lifted, his thin arms flung wide above his head and his lips moving as if in prayer. His eyes burned with a dull glow as though he had been suddenly thrown into a trance. He seemed not to breathe, no vibration of life stirred him except in the movement of his lips. With the third toll of the distant bell he spoke, and to Captain Plum it was as if the passion and fire in his voice came from another being.

"Our Christ, Master of hosts, we call upon thy chosen people the three blessings of the universe—peace, prosperity and plenty, and upon strange, priest, king and prophet, the bounty of thy power!"

Three times more the distant bell tolled forth its mysterious message and when the last echoes had died away the old man's arms dropped beside him and he turned again to Captain Plum.

"Franklin Pierce, president of the United States of America," he repeated, as though there had been no interruption since his companion's question. "The package is to be delivered to him. Now you must excuse me. An important matter calls me out for a short time. But I will be back soon—oh, yes, very soon. And you will wait for me. You will wait for me here, and then I will take you to St. James."

He was gone in a quick hopping way, like a cricket, and the last that Captain Plum saw of him was his ghastly face turned back for an instant in the darkness of the next room, and after that the soft patter of his feet and the strain of a chuckle in his throat traveled to the outer door and died away as he passed out into the night. Nathaniel Plum was not a man to be easily startled, but there was something so unusual about the proceedings in which he was yet playing a blind part that he forgot to smoke, which was saying much. Who was the old man? Was he mad? His eyes scanned the little room and an exclamation of astonishment fell from his lips when he saw the leather bag, partly filled with gold, lying where his mysterious acquaintance had dropped it. Surely this was madness or else another ruse to test his honesty. The discovery thrilled him. It was wonderfully quiet out in that next room and very dark. Were hidden eyes guarding that bag? Well, if so, he would give their owner to understand that he was not a thief. He rose from his chair and moved toward the bag, lifted it in his hand, and tossed it back again so that the gold in it tinkled loudly. Then he went to the narrow aperture and blocked it with his body and listened until he knew that if there had been human life in the room he would have heard it.

The outer door was opened and through it there came to him the soft breath of the night air and the sweet scent of balsam and wild flowers. It struck him that it would be pleasant waiting outside than in, and it would undoubtedly make no difference to Obadiah Price. In front of the cabin he found the stump of a log and seating himself on it he felt the clear light of the stars fall upon him as he once more began his interrupted smoke. It seemed to him that he had waited a long time when he heard the sound of footsteps. "They came rapidly as if the person was half running. Hardly had he located the direction of the sound when a shadow appeared in the opening and hurried toward the door of the cabin. A dozen yards from him it paused for a moment and turned partly about, as if inspecting the path over which it had come. With a greeting whistle Captain Plum jumped to his feet. He heard a little throat note, which was not the chuckling of Obadiah Price, and the figure ran almost into his arms. A sudden knowledge of having made a mistake drew Captain Plum's face backward. He scarcely more than five seconds he found himself staring into the white terrified face of a girl. Eyes wide and glowing with sudden fright met his own. Instinctively he lifted his hand to his hat, but before he could speak the girl sprang back with a low cry and ran swiftly down the path that led into the gloom of the woods.

For several minutes Captain Plum stood as if the sudden apparition had petrified him. He listened long after the sound of retreating footsteps had died away. There remained behind a faint sweet odor of lilac which stirred his soul and set his blood tingling. It was a beautiful face that he had seen. He was sure of that and yet he could have given no good verbal proof of it. Only the eyes and the odor of lilac remained with him and after a little the lilac drifted away. Then he went back to the log and sat down. He smiled as he thought of the joke that he had unwittingly played on Obadiah. From his knowledge of the Deaver Island Mormons he was satisfied that the old man who displayed gold in such reckless profusion was anything but a bachelor. In all probability this was one of his wives and the cabin behind him, he concluded, was for some reason isolated from the others. "Evidently that little saltiness is not a flirt," he concluded, "or she would have given me time to speak to her."

The continued absence of Obadiah Price began to fill Captain Plum with impatience. After an hour's wait he reentered the cabin and made his way to the little room, where the candle was still burning dimly. To his astonishment he beheld the old man sitting beside the table. His thin face was propped between his hands and his eyes were closed as if he was asleep. They shot open instantly on Captain Plum's appearance.

"I've been waiting for you, Nat," he cried, straightening himself with spring-like quickness. "Waiting for you a long time, Nat!" He rubbed his hands and chuckled at his own familiarity. "I saw you out there enjoying yourself. What did you think of her, Nat?" He winked with such audacious gleam that, despite his own astonishment, Captain Plum burst into a laugh. Obadiah Price held up a warning hand. "Tut, tut, not so loud!" he admonished. His face was a map of wrinkles. His little black eyes shone with silent laughter. There was no doubt but that he was immensely pleased over something. "Tell me, Nat—why did you come to St. James?"

He leaned forward over the table, his odd white head almost resting on it, and twiddled his thumbs with wonderful rapidity. "Oh, Nat," he urged. "Why did you come?"

"Because it was too hot and uninteresting lying out there in a cabin," replied the master of the Typhoon. "We've been roasting for 36 hours without a breath to fill our sails. I came over to see what you people are like. Any harm done?"

"Not a bit, not a bit—yet," chuckled the old man. "And what's your business, Nat?"

"Sailing—mostly."

"Ho, ho, of course, I might have known it! Sailing—mostly. Why, certainly you sail! And why do you carry a pistol on one side of you and a knife on the other, Nat?"

"Trousers' things, dad. Some of the fisherfolk along the Northern End aren't very scrupulous. They took a cargo of canned stuffs from me a year back."

"And what use do you make of the four-pounder that's wrapped up in tarpaulin under your deck, Nat? And what in the world are you going to do with five barrels of gunpowder?"

"How in blazes—" began Captain Plum.

"O, to be sure, to be sure—they're for the fisherfolk," interrupted Obadiah Price. "How 'em up, eh, Nat? And you seem to be a young man of education, Nat. How did you happen to make a mistake in your count? Haven't you 12 men aboard your sloop instead of eight, Nat? Aren't there 12 instead of eight? Eh, Nat?"

"The devil take you!" cried Captain Plum, leaping suddenly to his feet, his face flaming red. "Yes, I have got 12 men and I've got a gun in tarpaulin and I've got five barrels of gunpowder! But how in the name of kingdom-come did you find it out?"

Obadiah Price came around the end of the table and stood so close to Captain Plum that a person ten feet away could not have heard him when he spoke.

"I know more than that, Nat," he whispered. "Listen! A little while ago—any two weeks back—you were beamed off the head of Deaver Island, and one dark night you were boarded by two boatloads of men who made you and your crew prisoners, robbed you of everything you had—and the next day you went back to Chicago, eh?"

Nathaniel stood speechless.

"And you made up your mind those pirates were Mormons, enlisted some of your friends, armed your ship—and you're back here to make us settle. Isn't it, Nat?"

The little old man was rubbing his hands eagerly, excitedly.

"You tried to get the revenue cutter Michigan to come down with you, but they wouldn't—ho, ho, they wouldn't! One of our friends in Chicago sent quick word ahead of you to tell me all about it, and—Strang, the king, doesn't know!"

He spoke the last words in intense earnestness.

Then, suddenly, he held out his hand. "Young man, will you shake hands with me? Will you shake hands—and then we will go to St. James!"

Captain Plum thrust out a hand and the old man gripped it. The thin fingers tightened like cold clamps of steel. For a moment the face of Obadiah Price underwent a strange change. The hardness and glitter went out of his eyes and in place there came a questioning, almost an appealing, look. His tense mouth relaxed. It was as if he was on the point of surrendering to some emotion which he was struggling to stifle. And Nathaniel, meeting those eyes, felt that somewhere within him had been struck a strange chord of sympathy, something that made this little old man more than a halfmad stranger to him, and involuntarily the grip of his fingers tightened around those of his companion.

"Now we will go to St. James, Captain Plum!"

He attempted to withdraw his hand but Captain Plum held it to it.

"Not yet!" he exclaimed. "There are two or three things which your friend didn't tell you, Obadiah Price!"

Nathaniel's eyes glittered dangerously.

"When I left ship this morning I gave explicit orders to Casey, my mate."

He gazed steadily into the old man's unflinching eyes.

"I said something like this: 'Casey, I'm going to see Strang before I come back. If he's willing to settle for five thousand, we'll call it off. And if he isn't—why, we'll stand out there a mile and blow St. James into hell! And if I don't come back by tomorrow at sundown, Casey, you take command and blow it to hell without me!' So, Obadiah Price, if there's treachery—"

The old man clutched at his hands with insane fierceness.

Learn How to Market Your Ability

Every young man and woman has ability which has a marketable value. If you can get $6 a week you can EARN $15.00. If your salary is $1000, you are WORTH $2000. No matter what your salary, if you were not worth MORE your employer would not keep you. The question today is to learn how to command ALL you are worth. It is simply a question of knowing HOW to sell your BRAINS, your ABILITY, at the highest market prices. To do this you must have your brains trained along the right lines that you may be able to seize the opportunities that are presented to everyone.

Today the Business World offers the greatest rewards to men and women of ability greater than those offered by any profession and requiring less expenditure of time and money in preparation.

W. W. DALE, President.

Southern Wisconsin Business College

TRAINS YOUNG PEOPLE FOR BUSINESS

We prepare young people for the BEST POSITIONS in the SHORTEST TIME possible by the most APPROVED METHODS.

A Chartier Short-hand Training Can Be Turned Into Money at Once.

The demand for COMPETENT stenographers has always exceeded the supply. It is true there are many so-called stenographers getting $4 and $5 a week, but our graduates belong to another class. Students of CHARTIER SHORTHAND learn the system in one-half to one-third less time than is required for any other system, write it more rapidly and read it much more easily. Our stenographers succeed because they are trained to do good work. They are efficient in all the details of stenographic work because they have been taught the things that a business man expects them to know. Our training will enable you to earn twice as much as you can without it. Salaries of $40 to $75 a month are waiting for all who will qualify.

A CLASS OF STUDENTS WHO WON PENMANSHIP DIPLOMAS.

A Good Penman Is Always in Demand

The training our students receive in this subject alone has secured many a position and many a promotion. Almost 50 students this year received diplomas from the American Penman for proficiency in Penmanship. This we believe is the largest number awarded any school in the State.

Bookkeepers and Accountants Are Always Sure of Employment

We give our students a thorough grounding in the principles of business. Ask our graduates how intensely practical and interesting they find our work in Bookkeeping. We send our graduates direct to the bookkeeper's desk of some of the largest firms in the country. The teacher of this subject has had years of experience as a practical bookkeeper.

Positions For Our Graduates

In these days of commercial activity the GOOD BUSINESS SCHOOL has no difficulty placing all its graduates. Our school is known far and wide for the High Standards of work which we maintain, and hence we receive almost twice as many calls as we can fill. The demand for our graduates is constantly increasing so that we are able to assure A GOOD POSITION TO EVERY GRADUATE OR REFUND TUITION.

Reputation and Endorsement

The prospective student should select a school that has been long enough established to have demonstrated its success or else one which is able to show it has decided advantages which warrant consideration of its claims.

After over six years of successful work we have won the confidence and endorsement of the best business and professional men of Janesville and vicinity. In addition our great army of students and graduates occupying the HIGHEST POSITIONS in the LARGEST OFFICES speak in the highest terms of the instruction received at the S. W. B. C.

We Employ No Solicitors

The BEST SCHOOLS today have discontinued soliciting students and are turning their attention to strengthening their courses of study. This is our policy and the basis on which we desire to secure your patronage. We ask no student to sign a contract or scholarship of any kind either before or after entering, as we do not wish to prevent your going elsewhere if you find our courses and methods unsatisfactory. We shall gladly send you full information regarding our courses and call upon you by request, but we do not wish to bore our patrons in any way. As a final word, beware of the school which employs solicitors. No GOOD school has to resort to any such method to get business.

Training Makes the Difference in Men and Salaries

Does a school having a record for high grade work mean anything to the intending student? We ask you not to be deceived by fine sounding phrases and glittering promises. You want QUALITY, not SHOW—GUARANTEED RESULTS, not PROMISES.

IS JEALOUSY THE CAUSE OF SLUMP OF WORLD'S CHAMPION?

Pittsburg.—Every baseball fan is interested in the charges that Pittsburg's slump is due to jealousy among the players. President Barney Dreyfus denies this most emphatically. According to the rumor Hans Wagner and Jack Miller have openly declared war against Jack Flynn, the first baseman, and these two players have made strenuous efforts to oust him. It is further asserted that the slump of the world's champion is directly due to this factional fight and not to the weather, as has been attributed by loyal supporters of the Pittsburg team.

Because Captain Fred Clarke selected Flynn in place of "Bud" Sharpe for first base, the published story states that Wagner and Miller took up the cudgel against Flynn. President Barney Dreyfus would not discuss the situation tonight and would only issue a statement which says: "It goes against my grain to dignify such absurd fiction by denying it, but I will do so to save some of the club's friends from being misled. The entire story from beginning to end, is an absolute lie. There is not one word of truth in it."

WILLIE WISE.

Kelvin's Idea of Education.
Lord Kelvin outshined authorities with his knowledge of physical science, even as a lad. His education was of the old-fashioned, all-round sort—a sort which he enthusiastically recommended at a speech at the annual dinner of the London Glasgow University club as late as 1907. "A boy," he said, "should have learned by the age of 12 to write his own language with accuracy and some elegance; he should have a reading knowledge of the French, should be able to translate Latin and easy Greek authors, and should have some acquaintance with German. Having learned thus the meaning of words, a boy should study logic."

She Missed Mr. Blaine.
"I miss Mr. Blaine. I cannot bear the orderly array of my life. I miss the envelopes in the gray, the bespattered table linen, the uncertainty of the meals, for you know he always starts out on his constitutional when he hears them taking in dinner. I miss his unvarying attention and as constant neglect."—From "Letters of Mrs. James G. Blaine."

Great Painters Easy to Imitate.
How closely famous pictures can be imitated by skillful artists was proved by an exhibition by Ruskin in 1875 of a series of facsimiles of Turner's pictures in the National gallery, London. The collection was accompanied by a characteristic note from Ruskin, in which he said: "I have given my best attention during upward of ten years to train a copyist to perfect fidelity in rendering the works of Turner, and have now succeeded in enabling him to produce facsimiles so close as to look like replicas—facsimiles which I must sign with my own name to prevent their being sold for real Turners."

Senator Carter's Chinlators.
"Hello, Uncle Sam, you have to be where there is anything going on! And President Taft's heavy bag rang out in a crowd at a public gathering in Washington as he greeted Senator Carter. A private 'chinlators' of the Montana senate has made him 'Uncle Sam' to President Taft and to different cartoonists throughout the country."
